

Conference at Bonar Bridge: a very attractive little 6/8 march by Victorian Pipe-Major Alexander MacLeod, composer of “The Drunken Piper”, and left unpublished at his death. I found this amongst his papers which are now in the National Library of Scotland.

Bonar Bridge crossing the Dornoch Firth before the old bridge was replaced in 1973