

The 42nd's Farewell

March

The 42nd's Farewell: This is an excellent example of the principle well illustrated throughout pipe music that something which appears in one time signature may equally well appear in another; this tune is, of course, the march version of the strathspey “Highland Donald Kissed Kitty.”

Gaelic Air -- Mòrag leat shiùbhlainn

March

Gaelic Air--Mòrag leat shiùbhlainn: This was the tune chosen by Murdo MacFarlane (1901-1982) of Melbost, Lewis, for his song “Mòrag leat shiùbhlainn”. It is unclear whether he wrote the tune himself or used a pre-existing one. It was apparently first published in the Stornoway Gazette and also in Murdo MacFarlane’s published collection An Toinneamh Diomhair. I heard somebody singing the song and set the tune for the pipes about thirty years ago.
